In this in-depth biography, we will explore Eastwood's life and career, from his early days as a struggling actor to his rise to superstardom. We will also take a look at his personal life, his politics, and his legacy as one of the greatest stars in Hollywood history.

Early Life and Career

Clint Eastwood was born on May 31, 1930, in San Francisco, California. His father, Clinton Eastwood Sr., was a salesman, and his mother, Margaret Ruth Runner, was a homemaker. Eastwood has two older sisters, Jeanne and Alisa.

Eastwood's family moved frequently during his childhood, and he attended several different schools. He was a good student and a talented athlete, but he also had a rebellious streak. He was expelled from school several times for fighting and other infractions.

After graduating from high school, Eastwood worked a variety of odd jobs, including playing the piano in a bar and working as a construction worker. He also served two years in the U.S. Army.

In 1954, Eastwood moved to Los Angeles to pursue a career in acting. He landed his first major role in the 1955 film Revenge of the Creature. He went on to star in a number of low-budget Westerns and war films, but it was not until 1964 that he achieved his breakthrough role.

Breakthrough and Stardom

In 1964, Eastwood starred in Sergio Leone's Spaghetti Western A Fistful of Dollars. The film was a huge success, and it launched Eastwood into stardom. He went on to star in two more Spaghetti Westerns, For a Few Dollars More and The Good, the Bad and the Ugly. These films made Eastwood one of the most popular actors in the world.

In 1971, Eastwood starred in the film adaptation of the novel Dirty Harry. The film was a huge commercial and critical success, and it established Eastwood as a major force in Hollywood. He went on to star in several more Dirty Harry films, as well as other action films such as The Enforcer and Sudden Impact.

In the 1980s, Eastwood began to direct films in addition to acting. His directorial debut was the 1971 film Play Misty for Me. He went on to direct a number of successful films, including Unforgiven, Million Dollar Baby, and Mystic River.

Personal Life and Politics

Eastwood has been married three times. His first marriage, to Maggie Johnson, lasted from 1953 to 1984. They had two children, Kyle and Alison. His second marriage, to Dina Ruiz, lasted from 1996 to 2013. They had one daughter, Morgan.

Eastwood is a conservative Republican. He has endorsed several Republican candidates for office, including Ronald Reagan, George W. Bush, and Donald Trump. He has also been critical of the Democratic Party and its policies.
