

The Floor of Heaven: A Journey to the End of the World

In his latest book, The Floor of Heaven, John Lewis-Stempel takes us on a breathtaking journey to the end of the world. He travels to the remote and desolate landscapes of Patagonia, the Antarctic, and the Arctic, where he encounters the harshest conditions on Earth. But it is not just the physical challenges that he faces that make this journey so extraordinary. It is also the emotional and spiritual challenges that he must confront, as he comes to terms with his own mortality and the meaning of life and death.

Lewis-Stempel is a gifted writer with a keen eye for detail and a deep understanding of the natural world. He brings us vivid descriptions of the landscapes he encounters, from the towering mountains and glaciers of Patagonia to the icy wastes of the Antarctic. He also introduces us to the people he meets along the way, from scientists and explorers to local guides and fishermen. These encounters provide him with insights into the different ways that people cope with living in such extreme environments.
